MEDIA RELEASE Friday, 24 April 2009

Perfection in a bottle.

With the increasing incidents of skin cancer (No 1 cancer in Australia), acne, stretch marks, scars, burns, wounds or many other skin ailments, it has become evident that the struggle of the biggest organ in the body (the Skin) to deal with the continuous exposure to different types of environmental aggressions, such as UV rays, chemical or pollution, is affecting everyone without discrimination. The healing process of damaged skin now has a powerful ally, Tamanu oil, a natural oil used for centuries for its medicinal benefits.

For nearly 100 years Tamanu oil has been medically studied in laboratories and proven to have amazing healing properties including the reduction in scar tissue and anti-viral, anti-inflammatory and anticoagulant properties. The oil is extracted from the nuts of the "Sacred Tree" of Tahiti and has been used by the Polynesians for centuries as a natural "medicine" and cosmetic. The remarkable composition of the Tamanu oil - fatty acids, glycerids, unsaponifiables (sterols), essential fatty acids, triterpens, xanthon, steroids and Coumarins - has been scientifically proven to provide superior anti ageing qualities - moisturising, nourishing and regenerating the cells of the epidermis. The Australian Society of Cosmetic Chemists have already reviewed its role as a natural ingredient in anti-ageing of the skin and Ecocert certification is currently in progress.

The synergy of the naturally occurring compounds in this unique oil provides the skin with a number of medically proven results:

- one of the most remarkable benefits is the cytoprotective effect against UV-induced DNA damage and oxidative stress, thus defining its role as a new biological UV filter with a SPF 18-22.
- regenerating effect on the epidermis cells promoting wound healing (burns, cuts, cracks, scars...) and in particular improves the appearance of aged scars (1 year or older)
- anti acne, anti septic, anti inflammatory, anti viral, antibiotic, anti-coagulative, fungal inhibitor and antibacterial effects
- cancer chemo-preventive agents (anti-tumor-promoting agents)

Details of the full composition and benefits lists, with references, can be obtained at www.monoï.com.au.

Tamanu oil is completely natural and totally free of preservatives, parabens, petro-chemicals, animal products or animal by-products or any other little hidden cheap nasties. It is available at a 100% concentration and the recently improved extraction process preserves all the beneficial properties of the raw product in an easy to use refreshing light green oil that exhibits a subtle nutty scent. "Perfection in a bottle."

With Tamanu oil now available in Australia , every child, teenager, man and woman has access to the holistic principles of ancient global beauty secrets.
